The Saxon Dictionary which bears the name of Mr. Thomas Benson then AB afterwards AM of Queen's college was done chiefly by Mr. Thwaites. Mr. Todhunter of the same college had some hand in it as had also two or three more young gentlemen of the same college though not mentioned in the preface which was written by Mr. Thwaites or rather Dr. Mill. It is a compendium of Mr. Somner. The additions taken from Mr. Junius' papers in the Bodleian library. Mr. Benson now chaplain to the Bishop of Carlisle. Mr. Thwaites has a brother now taberder of Queen's college an ingenious young man. He studies the Saxon language and receives an annual pen-sion [as I heard Mr. Thwaites say] from the Lord Bishop of Carlisle to encourage him in the said Studies. Ballard MS. anno 1706.

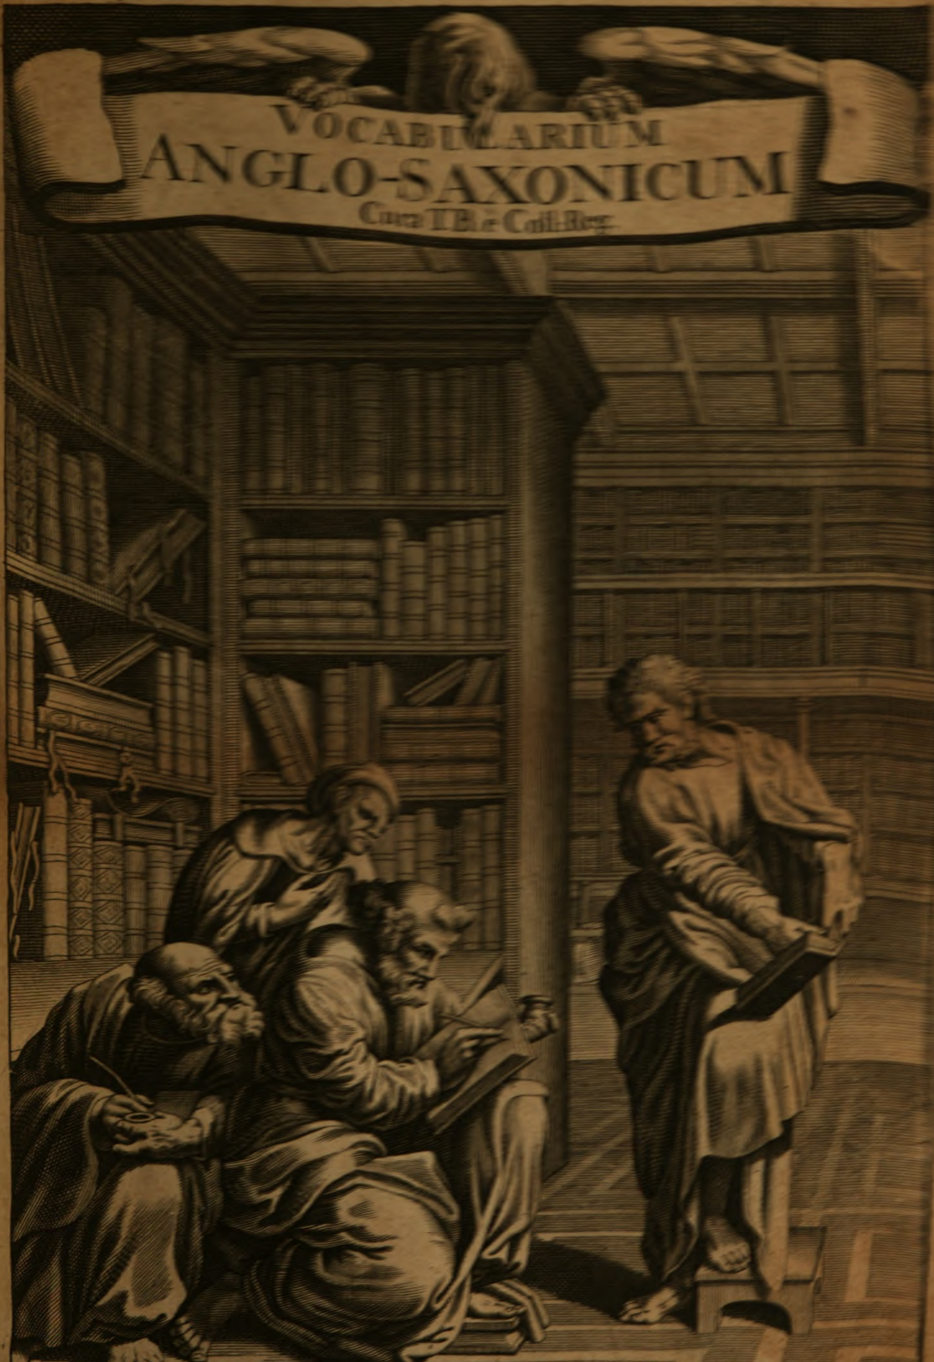

MS. Ballard is a MS. copy of Somner's dictionary by Mr. Ballard with a vast number of additional words by Mr. Thwaites. Mr. Ballard, from his ignorance of the Latin language has very incorrectly copied the interpretation of many words. His own marginal additions are however of some worth. Upon comparing the transcript I found that Mr. Lye has incorporated in his own work all Mr.

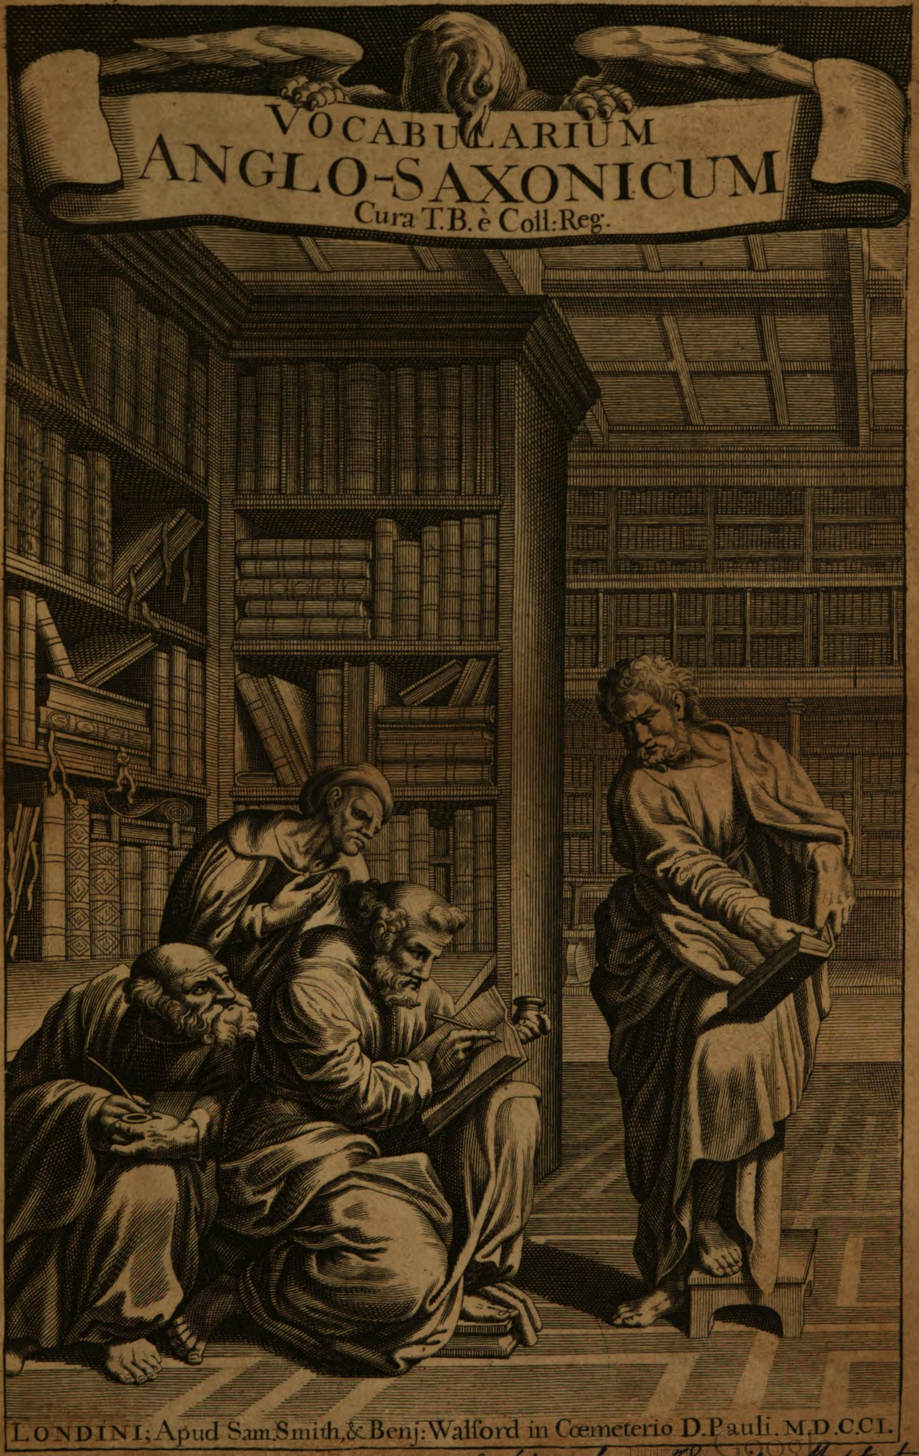

Thwaites additions. HE. 1798 [Henry Ellis]

A MS. Saxon vocabulary by Nat SPINCKES is among Dr. Rawlinson's MSS. at Oxford No. 108.

Mr. Thwaites discovered Junius' matrices and punchions. Ballard MSS. IV, 14, 16, 25, 44, 48, 76. VII, 12. XVII, 27. XIX, 21.

Ballard's MSS. contains a large body of materials for he literary history. Her great skill in the Northern lan-guages XIX, 45, 49, 53, 54, 58. Queries concerning her prin-ples 68, 69, 72, 80.
